The Jewelry Store Investigation

On a rainy Friday evening, a famous jewelry store was preparing to close when two masked men entered the building. One distracted the police officer while the other broke into the store through a back window. The criminals stole expensive jewelry and tried to escape. An elderly witness saw one suspect drop a black jacket. Investigators found fingerprints, blood, clothing fibers, and an identification card inside it. The police arrested the suspect. His lawyer argued that the ID had been stolen, but the judge examined all the evidence in court. The victim and the witness testified. Finally, the judge sentenced the criminal to prison, imposed a fine, and ordered community service after release because of the damage caused.
